DENTON, Md., July 3.-Marshall E Price, the blacksmith who murdered Sallie Dean, a schoolgirl, last spring, was taken from jail by a mob last night at 11 o'clock from jall by a mob last night at 11 o'clock and hanged to a tree. He was to have been legally executed next Friday, but Gov. Brown yesterday granted him a respite that his case might be heard by the Court of Appeals. This action was necessary, according to law, which makes it imperative in capital cases appealed to court of last resort, but as the case could not come up before the October term the respite meant a delay of several months, and the people were very much dissatisfied. Sheriff Berry was about to retire for the night when a masked mob of 100 men demanded the keys. He refused and the doors were forced. The lynchers found Price on his knees praying and begging for mercy, but he was quickly hustled to an old oak tree near the prison and suspended from a high limb. He was the third condemned murderer respited or reprised by Gov. Brown and lynched by a mob.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyrighted, 1896 by the Press Pab. Co.)

HAVANA, June 28—The Home Minister of Foreign Colonies at Madrid is changing all the Government officers every two months. He acts as though he had completely iost faith in his subordinates. From Cuba they are sent to Puerto Principe or Puerto Rico, and from that place to Manilla, thence to Cuba. In fact, they are kept moving about like a lot of excursion steamboats plying a regular course, but stopping at all intermediate stations.

Harry Brooks is known positively to have landed in the small bay of Guamo, near El Portillo. It was a daring feat to accomplish, and he was accompanied by very few followers. The exact number of them and their names cannot be ascertained. When Brooks landed he was surounded by Spanish troops, and in order to save their lives the revolutionists had to abandon their belongings—four cannon and a large amount of ammunition they had brought—to dodge, the pursuing troops and escape. On the following day Brooks met revolutionary forces numbering 1,500, commanded by Gen. Rabi. Together they returned to regain possession of their lost property. It had already been confiscated by the Government troops. A fierce battle ensued, in which the insurgents completely routed the Spanish troops. Not only did they recover their four pieces of artillery and their ammunition, but they captured all the guas and ammunition that the Spaniards had.

Measures taken all over the island by the Spanish Government to prevent the spreading of the revolution are constantly becoming more severe. Gen. Campos does not approve of giving the official rope a sudden Jerk, but he is pulling it gradually around the neck of the people.

THEIR NARROW ESCAPE.

Close Call of Congressman Joy and Bride While Coaching.

CASADRO, Cal., July 3.—Ex-Congressman Charles F. Joy of Missouri and his bride had a narrow escape from death near here. While driving with a coaching party of twelve on a steep mountain road with a precipice on one side, the coach overturned. Fortunately it fell towards the mountain instead of over the precipice. The bravery of the driver, who jumped in between the struggling horses, saved the party from being dragged to death or hurled into the gorge below. Only one person was badly hurt. Mrs. Tompkins had her hip dislocated and was injured internally.

The Walsh Zonaves.

The Walsh Zouaves.

The Walsh Zouaves deserve more credit than any other company on the grounds. After being practically out of existence for several years, Capt. Wm. Heyman hurriedly called the members together just seven days before the encampment opened and reorganized the company. They at once began to drill and by Monday the boys were ready to go into camp.

They were almost without uniforms and the guns belonging to the company were old and out of date. When the company was called out for inspection yesterday a smart trick was turned. The Belknap Rifies had aiready been inspected and their arms found to be in first-class condition, so the Walsh Zouaves borrowed them and started for the parade ground. Their caps were not in as good condition as Capt. Heyman wished and another levy was made on their neighbors to make up the deficiency. This time it was the Mount Pleasant Band boys who were the donors. Their red fez, with large yellow tassels were borrowed, and when the Walsh Zouaves came before the grand stand they made a fine appearance. They passed the inspection and received a high percentage and were highly complimented on the condition of their arms.

The Walsh Zouaves was one of the best drilled companies in the United States in the palmy days of its organization, The company was organized in July, 1886, and has captured trophles at the following places: Austin, Tex., 1888, first prize, $1.500; Kansas City, 1890, second; St. Louis, 1891, first; Indianapolis, 1891, second.

If the company succeeds in capturing a prize after only seven days drilling, it will put new life into the boys and a thorouch reorganization will be effected and the company maintained. New arms and uniforms will be ordered and an effort will be made to win back their former glory.

On Tuesday evening Rev. Fr. Wm. Walsh, their patron, visited the boys at their camp and bade them good-by. He gave them words of encouragement and told them to hustle for the first prize. He will sail for Europe in a few days.

The Belknap Rifies.

The Belknap Rifies organized is July 1884, and in September of that year received a charter. Col. Attgustus Belknap, whose in name is famous in the history of the Lone Star State, became the patron of the company, which was named in his honor.

Nine prizes have been captured by the company as follows: Lampasis, 1885, second; San Antonio, 1885, first; Galveston, 1886, first maiden and fifth interstate; Wash; ington, 1887, third interstate; Austin, 1883, second; Galveston, 1889, first; Indianapolis, 1881, second; Omaha, 1892, fourth. The officers of the company are Judge Robert. B. Green, Captain; Edward W. Richardson, First Lleutenant.

In April, 1866, the election riots in Laredo between the Zapatas and the Botas resulted in the Belknaps being ordered out by the Governor of the State to quell the disturbance, and accompanied by the San Antonio Rifies, war correspondents, etc., they left for the scene of war on a special train. A desire for human gore pervaded the atmosphere of the car as it left the International depot, but as the later thoughts of blood-

A desire for human gore pervaded the atmosphere of the car as it left the International depot, but as the train neared Laredo the thoughts of blood-thirsty warring Mexicans caused many a lip to pucker while "Home, Sweet Home" was softly whistled. Fortunately, however, all troubles had been settled before the militia arrived, and the companies stayed two or three days until all danger had passed, when they returned home and were received with distinguished honors and a reception accorded them.

The Belknap Riffes is one of the crack companies of the United States. It is one of the most popular companies on the grounds, and its members are confident of securing first or second prize honors.

the case. After diligent inquiry in this vicinity and a tour of several country towns, it was learned from persons who had bitten that the headquarters of the green

Hungley's girl-wife and aged mother-in-law were not arrested. The inspector is satisfied that they had no green goods, but planned to receive the "suckers" money and return a package of sawdust or something similar.

BALFOUR'S BROTHER. Why He Holds a Responsible Post Under Salisbury.

philosophy Gerald devotes to economics. He was a member of the Royal Commission on Labor and his cross-examination of English labor leaders on their crude Socialistic schemes was singularly brilliant. He goes very little into society, and lives with his wife, who is a daughter of the last Lord Lytton, in a small house in Kensington. He is not rich and has been engaged in many public companies, some of them remarkably successful. The attachment between the two Balfour brothers is exceedingly atrong. Gerald Balfour holds his seat in Leeds by a narrow majority, and may be defeated at the general election, but doubtless even then some other Tory member would be induced to retire in return for a peerage.

A curious prophecy in connection with this appointment is that in case of a conservative majority at the general election it is the purpose of Arthur Balfour to bring in a comprehensive scheme of land purchase, under which Irish tenants will become the owners of their farms on easy terms; to establish and endow the Catholic University in Ireland and to bring in a new scheme of local government. Nevertheless, home rule will be denied. The vast bulk of the Irish people will be excluded as rigidly as ever from any voice in the management of national affairs, and the right of public meeting and combination will be assailed as it was under Sailsbury's last administration.

The Mora Claim.

MADRID, July 3.—The Spanish Government has appointed a committee to consider the claims of the United States regarding the confiscation of the estate of Antonio Maximo Mora, an American citizen residing on the Island of Cuba. The value of the property taken from Mora was alleged to be about $2,500,000. This was dene during a previous insurrection in Cuba. In December, 1886, Spain promised to pay $1,500,000 under this claim with interest on such part of the indemnity as should be deferred.

Mr. Greene was followed by Mrs. James Richardson, who read her essay on the "Pianoforte" amid the frequent applause of the audience.

Briefly synopsized, Mrs. Richardson said that she gave the salient points of the pianoforte as they had revealed themselves to her observation and feeling under physical, mental and spiritual aspects, these three terms conforming more or less strictly with Technique, Form and Conception. The reader held that the piano stands midway between the organ and the violin, it being less physical and mose psychical than the organ, and less psychical and more intelligent than the violin. Its reputation has been hurt by three things: First, by the use of the upright; second, by its use for mere social and fad purposes; third, through ill-judged adaptations from orchestral and operatic works, especially those of Wagner.

"I have heard just two pieces adapted from Wagner which were successful," said Mrs. Richardson. "These are lyrical in character, definite and external in meaning, and so arranged that the theme stands out against a rich background of harmonies. Liszt's transcription of the Spinning Song from the Flying Dutchman' is another successful piano adaptation, because of its external character. For Wagner's metaphysical and symbolistic effects the piano has too much to do."

Mrs. Richardson closed her essay by saying that there are two conceptions and two intentions possible to the student of the piano. One ends in the acquirement of a graceful, amiable, convenient social adjuct—the other does not and at all, but leads on into art and the real life.

Electric Companies Will Be Compelled to Bury Wires Nilly-Willy.

Mr. Ferris presented in the City Council Tuesday night a resolution providing for prompt action in the undergrounding of all overhead wires. The necessity for legislation to that end and the need that the subways should be owned and certainly controlled by the city was set forth, and the non-adoption of the Subway Commission's report on account of certain legal questions referred to. The resplution added that these points have been settled by the Supreme Court, and in order that the Municipal Assembly may again consider the commission's plan or other plans for burying the wires, Mr. Ferris proposed that the Board of Public Improvements be requested to draft an ordinance providing for the undergrounding of all electric wires by the voluntary and co-operative action of all electric light and power, telegraph and telephone companies, and in default of voluntary action by compulsion. The ordinance to be drafted should provide for the present control and ultimate ownership of the conduit system by the city.

Mr. Heckel moved to postpone consideration of the resolution for a week because he and other members were not familiar with the recent decision of the Supreme Court. Mr. Ferris presented in the City Counci

Commissioner Lee said in reply to the question, Does the Board of Police Commissioners propose to retaliate for the wholesale dismissal of Democrats by the Republican city administration?

"There is nothing to retaliate for. The Republicans have done nothing but what they should do and just what Democrats should do when they get control, though they have heretofore been very remiss in such matters. I admire and commend the Republican administration for its course. The way for Democrats to retaliate in such matters is to get together, quit squabbling and turn the Republicans all out at the next municipal election, and in my private capacity I propose to help retaliate in that way.

"I believe a general revision of the police force under the law would be of great benefit. There is a class of officers who are what is known in commercial parlance as time-servers' and who do more of what is called 'soldiering' than they do of active vigilant police duty. They cannot be reached by the preferrent of charges because they travel right along the line between inefficiency and passable service and thereby escape arraignment before the board. Their superior officers are not to blame, as when they prefer charges they must be prepared to substantiate them by strong and positive circumstantial evidence in order to sustain them. The law which provides that an officer shall be appointed for four years and shall at the end of that time be preferred for reappointment if his record is good and his services have been satisfactory, is a good law and should be enforced in the interest of the efficiency of the department.

"I look upon the Police Department of the city as removed to a great extent from politics and a man's political opinions have but little to do with his duty as a policeman, but I believe that a positive test of good citizenship is an exercise of the ines-

RENSBERGER'S IMAGINATION.

He Was Robbed Of.

Frank Rensberger, Jr., who reported to the police while passing a vacant lot at Second and Utah streets two men held him up and robbed him of $500, is a great fakir.

Rensberger's father lives at 2210 Menard street. He said his son never had $500 in his lite, and he knew nothing of his alleged loss. Henry Bauermeister, 3413 Kosciusko street, father of young Rensberger's fiances, denied that he had given the young man $500 to buy furniture to set up housekeeping.

He says Rensberger claimed he had drawn $500 from the Lafayette Bank, June 55. The bank people say he never had an account there.

The detectives think Rensberger started the story because he had no money and wanted to get his wedding postponed.

lic works, such as sewerage, Waterworks, etc., $1,152,195.5 was expended. Special funds amounting to $1,182,596.40 were disbursed.

The bonded debt at the close of the fiscal year amounted to $21,024,711.55, showing a reduction of $172,000 during the year. The outstanding debt is composed of $6,111,000 bonds of the late county of $6. Louis, $5,808,-600 bonds issued for Waterworks purposes, and $9,105,711.55 of city bonds. The bonds which mature during the fiscal year amount to $1,352,000. Of this amount $975,000 are provided for by the issue of renewal bonds, and $377,000 will be redeemed out of the revenue of the sinking fund.

The assessed valuation of taxable property for the taxes of 1895 amounts to $326,-326,406, an increase of $16,121,750 over the preceding year.

In his recommendations Comptroller Sturgeon says, after relterating by reference his recommendations of last year:

"The inadequacy of the revenue to meet she growing wants of the city necessitates the making of every effort to increase the revenue. Our rate of taxation for ordinary purposes is as high as the law allows, and our license system as extensive as it is probably prudent to make it; therefore, our only remedy seems to be in providing a more efficient system of collection. To accomplish this, I would recommend the creation of a separate department upon which would be imposed the duty of assessing licenses. Af present the functions of assessing and collecting licenses are both exercised by the Collector, who also collects all taxes—general and special—for the State, schools and city. The assessment of property for purposes of taxation is made by a separate department, and the advantages of a separation of the functions of assessing and collecting are apparent. A separation of the functions of assessing and collecting are apparent. A separation of the functions of assessing and collecting the license revenue seems to me equally as desirable. In this connection I would also say that I am satisfied that the clerical force in the Collector,

But Gladstone and Crispi have been distinctively servants of their people. They have been loyal to their thrones only as recognized parts of the machinery of government. They are both of the people and representatives of popular aspirations. They have earned titles of nobility greater than it is in the power

There are too many fools and knaves who hold the title of prince by accident of birth for the gift of it to confer any they are submitted by sending a few Gladstone and Crispi; in fact, it is putting it mildly to say that there is not a royal family in existence that would not receive more honor from the title of Mr Gladstone or Sig. Crispi than either of these statesmen would receive from any title that royalty can bestow.

LICENSE TAX COLLECTION.

Comptroller Sturgeon struck the weakest point in our local revenue system when he suggested in his annual report the separation of the functions of assessing and collecting license taxes.

The Post-Dispatch has repeatedly during the last few years pointed out that combining the functions of assessor and collector of licenses is the worst possibl system for getting the best results, or, to put it more accurately, the best possible system to get the worst results.

Under the system there is no way to ascertain whether the assessment and collection of these taxes are honestly and efficiently done. There is no check upor e. There is unlimited oppor tunity for abuse, dishonesty and neglect

The beneficial results of the change of have been thoroughly demon strated in the matter of saloon licenses The strenuous efforts of the Post-Dispatch to effect that reform have been justified by experience. Although the number of saloons has been greatly reduced the revenue has been greatly increased. We are confident that similar would follow a similar change with regard to other licenses. It is gratifying to find the City Comptroller adopting the suggestion of the Post-Dispatch and urging it with so much vigor and clearness of argument The accomplishment of this reform would be a credit to the municipal administration and a great benefit to the city.

ENGLAND'S POLITICAL PIONEERS.

The clearest note in the British political campaign is struck by the Radical party of which Henry Labouchere and Sir Charles Dilke are the guiding minds.

The party's manifesto demands reform the registration and franchise laws so that one man will have only one vote and the abolition of the power of legis lative obstruction in the House of Lords The coalition government is denounced as representing monopoly, privilege and

But there is not the slightest hope of triumphant Radicalism in Great Britain as yet. The bulwarks of privilege have yet to be undermined. The British people move slowly in politics. All the Radicals can hope to do is to conduct an educationcan hope to do is to conduct an educational campaign and acquire a sufficient strength to force parts of their programme on the leading party in return for support. But they are blazing the way which will lead some party to victory in the not far distant future.

BOSSISM BUN MAD.

After a spasm of common sense, which he manifested in an interview in yester-day's Post-Dispatch, Mr. Maffit, in another interview in the Francis organ this morning, relapses into his normal state of stolid mulishness.

He stated in the Post-Dispatch interview that he would accept the action of the county committees and conventions where their action had been taken subsequent to the meeting of the State Com-mittee on June 1. He felt justified, he said, in refusing to accept the expressions of county committees or conventions made prior to that date—and this is not

It was clearly perceived that under this stipulation conclusive evidence from a considerable majority of the counties in the State would be submitted to Mr. Maffitt before the end of the week. In the interest of the faction which runs him, therefore, it became necessary to devise another obstruction to the people's will. So, in the Republic interview, Mr. Maffitt announces that all requests from county committees must be submitted directly to him, and that he will not con-"outsiders acting in the capacity of go-betweens." This is interpreted by the organ as meaning that the requests sent through Chairman McAllester, Secretary Britt or any one else will not be taken

Does Mr. Maffitt claim the right to dictate the precise method by which the county committees shall transmit their to him? Does he claim the right to say that all requests and suggestions must be sent to him by mail, and that he may refuse to consider any that are sent to him through a messenger or any other medium they may choose to select? Does he claim the right to determine that a petition sent to him by mail is "reg-ular," and that another duly authenticated petition sent to him by a friendly messenger is "irregular?" Does he deny the right of fifty-eight county committees to transmit their requests for a conven-tion to Secretary Britt or any one else, to be conveyed in this manner to the Chairman of the State Committee? Does he hold that the duly authenticated request of a county committee sent to through Chairman McAllester and Mr. Britt is invalid simply because it was not sent to him direct by mail?

If so, who gave him the authority to make these rules? What excuse has he for further trifling with his fellow Democrats of Missouri? When the Planters' House conference was in session here, he promised distinctly and unequivocally that he would call the State Committee together to act on a State Convention when requested to do so by a majority of the chairmen of the county committees. In pursuance of this agreement, the conference appointed two of its members to collect these requests and lay them be-fore Mr. Maffitt. The sole question, for him to determine under this agreement is whether the requests submitted to him are authentic. This he can easily do after telegrams where he is in doubt. To say now that the requests shall be transmitted to him through no channel except such as he chooses to prescribe as ar afterthought is as utterly without excuse as for him to say that he will consider requests written in red ink and will igore such as are written in black ink.

Mr. Maffitt's shuffling and evason in this matter is making him ridiculous and contemptible throughout the State. And for whose benefit? For the benefit of a selfish little clique that takes its cue from Washington and not from the people of Missouri, and that would "dump" him unhesitatingly the moment he ceased to be useful to it.

NEW DANGERS OF DRUNKENNESS.

The cases of Chauncey Powell and Frank Carter, who were arrested, tried and acquitted on a charge of stealing $100 from one Daniel McStay, an Englishman, tend to shake one's faith in the aegis of Republican institutions.

McStay, it appears from the testimony, accused Powell and Carter of robbing him of the money while he was drunk The men were arrested on his accusation and held in jail for eight days. At the trial it developed that the money was not stolen at all, but was found stowed away under the carpet of McStay's room, where he had put it for safety.

Of course the cases were dismissed and it is probable that the accused men have good ground for action for the recovery of damages from McStay. But this is small satisfaction for the humiliation and hardship of arrest and an eight-day incarceration in jail. It does not satisfy be arrested and held in jail for eight days on so flimsy an accusation as this turned The charge was based on a out to be. mere suspicion prompted by the vague imagining of what might have happened

It would be hard to imagine a more astonishing example of unpardonable ess and disregard of rights. If citizens are subject to arrest and impris onment on the vaporings of drunken fancy, who is safe? And of what use are Drunkenness assumes new terrors for sober citizens.

Both of these gentlemen believe that the law is a hardship on the people and should be amended. Mayor Strong plainly told a delegation of liquor dealers that he believed there should be provision for the sale of beer on Sunday. Public sentiment in New York favors a more liberal law.

But as officials the attitude of Mayor Strong and Commissioner Roossvelt is Strong and Commissioner Roosevelt is exactly right. Every law in the statute book must be enforced or the force of all law is weakened. When a law is not en-forced because it is a hardship on certain forced because it is a hardship on certain people or because it is disliked, or the local sentiment is against it, public respect for law is diminished and an opening is made for the evasion of many laws. A nucleus of influences favorable to law-breaking is created.

Not only is the saying that the best way to get rid of a bad law is to enforce it, true, but it is also true that the best way to break down all laws is to fall, to

The resolution of Councilman Ferriss providing for a prompt and comprehensive settlement of the subway question should be passed at the next Council meeting. The ordinance it requests the Board of Public Improvements to draft embraces the essential points of a satisfactory settlement. A plan on the outline suggested would make the city master of the situation and at the same time ter of the situation and at the same time offer conduit accommodations to all the companies on equal terms. The control of the conduit system must be reserved for the city with the opportunity to acquire ownership, if ownership at the be ginning is impossible. But the wires must be buried as quickly as possible.

Secretary Britt of the Planters' House conference has received fifty-seven re-sponses from chairmen of Democratic county committees favoring the calling of a State convention. This is only one less than a majority and before the end of the week Mr. Britt will certainly hav a majority, and he and Chairman Mc Allester will call upon Chairman Maffitt and present him with this evidence of the will of the Missouri Democracy. It remains to be seen whether Chairmay Maffitt will assume the responsibility of denying such a demand of the party.

The new Police Board has made a excellent start in the direction indicated by the Post-Dispatch yesterday as needed to increase the efficiency of the department. The proceedings of the first meet ing yesterday indicated a determination to enforce discipline and insist upor efficient service. The dismissals and other penalties inflicted upon derelict officers cannot fail to have a good effect But permanent improvement cannot be secured by a single spurt. The work must be kept up.

They Should Organize.
From the Sedalia Democrat.
The bimetallists of Missouri should organise. The gold standard advocates are few in number, but they are active, shrewd few in number, but they are active, sarewa, resourceful and supplied with all the money they need for an aggressive campaign. They have virtual control of the Republican party and are industriously seeking to divert the democracy from its doctrines and traditions. They must be met by perfect organization and consulers watchfulness.

From the Sedalia Democrat.

The esteemed St. Louis Republic is mistaken, as usual, when it says: "The questaken, as usual, when the state of the line is whether Missouri Democrats shall hold a convention to issue a new silver plathold a convention to issue at all. The form." That is not the issue at all. The real question is, shall we reiterate the old platform or suffer the doctrine taught by John Sherman to be thrust down our throats by its new converts.

BIMETALLISM IN A DIALOGUE

What are the specific evils which bimetallism professes to be able to ramove? A political friend of Mr. Leonard Courtney, a distinguished English bimetallist and member of Parliament, addressed a number of questions to him with the view of obtaining a clear statement of the bimetallist position. Mr. Courtney has published the questions, with his answers, in the National Review, London (May), and we quote here the most fundamental part of the article, which is given the form of a dialogue:

Question. What are the present evils which it is alleged that the adoption of bimetallism by international agreement would remove?

Answer. Under a bimetallic regime there would remove?

Answer. Under a bimetallic regime there is practically one standard of value throughout the commercial world. This was so up to 1872. The relation between gold and silver was permahent and constant. The abandonment of that system separated the two metals, and their values have been moving in opposite directions, bringing one set of evils where the standard has been appreciating, and discouraging the commerce between the two countries or groups of countries.

Dr. John P. Bryson.

Dr. John Paul Bryson was born April 16, 186, at Milecross, near Macon, Miss. He was raised on his father's plantation, his education being received from his father and a tutor. He served with the Army of Virginia and returned to take up the study of medicine. During the cholera epidemia of 1886 he came to St. Louis and entered the Humbolid Medical College. After his graduation he served a year at the City Hospital. In 1878, Dr. Bryson married Miss. Mary Sterling Winter of Bayou Sara, La. She died in 189, and one year ago the doctor led to the altar Miss Jeannie Richmond of Woodstock, Vt.

Bimetallic Victories. From the New York World.

There is much rejoicing in the Eastern Republican newspapers over the fact that silver monometailism was beaten at the meeting of the Republican League Clubs at Cleveland and in the resolution adopted by the Philadelphia Union League. In spite of the fact that a "16 to 1" silv was nominated by the Democratic State convention of Kentucky, the plaform it adopted is also halled as a bad "knock-out" for the silver monometallism embodied in the candidate.

But it is well to bear in mind the significant fact that gold monometallism was also beaten in these contests as distinctly also beaten in these contests as distinctly and emphatically as silver monometallism was. The national resolution reaffirmed by the Republican clubs at Cleveland declared for bimetallism, "the use of both gold and silver as standard money," with the usual parity provise of the sound-money doctrine. The resolution of the Philadelphia Union League simply declares for dollars of "equal purchasing power and stable value," regardless of the metal, and against "free and unlimited coinage of the arbitrary ratio of 16 to 1." The resolution of the Kentucky Democrats merely readopted the bimetallic platform on which Mr. Cleveland was elected in 1892.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. Precedents for Chairman Maffitt. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The statement made by Chairman Maffitt of the Democratic State Committee that Democratic State conventions in off years are unprecedented shows that gentleman lamentably deficient in the history of the Democratic party. In 1876 and 1877, when the Hayes fraud was being consummated, the Democratic State Committee of Indiana issued a call for a State convention to consider what steps could be taken to prevent the consummation of that fraud. In pursuance of that call the largest convention of the best men of Indiana convention of the best men of Indiana convenion of the best men of Indiana convenion of the State Convenion of the Dest men of Indiana convenion of State Conveni o the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. wened. with a convention of 800 delegates, among whom were Palmer, Springer, Trumbull, Marshall, Townshend and McClernand, and nearly all of the Democratic leaders of the State. Two days were consumed, the situation fully discussed and resolutions passed condemning the fraudulent returns from Louisiana, South Carolina and Florida. I think some other States entered their protest in a similar way.

Those are precedents that Mr. Maffitt can follow with credit to himself and committee. The people are just as earnest now as then, and will enter just as emphatic a protest against the great wrong buing perpetrated by Cleveland, Carilisie & Co. as they did against the Hayes fraud of 1876-77.

The "Spotter" and His Work.

To the Editor of The Post-Dispatch.

There are a few car lines in St. Louis which, to save a few dollars, employ inferior, incompetent, and, probably, unprincipled, persons to inspect their lines and "check up" their conductors, in which cases it is quite possible that the street car men are frequently the sufferers, unjustly, either through inefficiency or insufferable care-lessness on the part of the "spotter." But, as a general rule, the "spotter" is a carefully picked party, whose work is carefully watched by the railway officials, and whose imperative instructions are, "in all cases, give the men the benefit of the doubt and do them justice." That this rule is carried out to the letter, no one knows better the To the Editor of The Post-Dispat give the men the benefit of the doubt and out to the letter, no one knows better the street railroad men themselves. Whenever a man is reported as being dishonest the first thing done is to verify that report, and that conductor is not disturbed until it is verified. For instance, if one of the inspectors working the line reports conductor No. 500 as having stolen five fares on a certain trip, then he is at once subjected to stricy surveillance by several other inspectors end if their reports verify the first he is jugity "jet out."

So it is throughout the wark. No honest man has anything to fear the strict of the contract of the strict out.

It seems that there is already a corporation by the name of the St. Louis Athletic Club in this city—the owners and operators of the South Side track. It is called so little of it when the wear and the reach said their new cognomen.

Messrs. Spink of the South Side track said that they would willingly yield the name to the West Ends if the latter would bear the expense of the change, but it is not improbable that the club will again be christened, which can be done without a fee.

The St. Louis Team Will Play the Windy City Eleven.

The St. Louis Cricket team leaves for Chicago this evening and will stay over Saturday, in the interim playing three matches against picked clubs of the Windy City. The eleven depart at $ 5°clock over the Wabash, and their friends will be there to wish them success in their arduous undertaking.

Vote and Decide the Maid of Honor Contest.

WHO IS THE YOUNG LADY?

She Will Be Presented With a Beautiful Set of Her Company's Nosegays of female loveliness on the Jockey Club campus and veranda were a-flutter with excitement to-day. There was a spirit of rivairy in the air and each fair maid of honor wore her most winning smile toward the soldier boys.

There was just a touch more of care in the costumins, just a trife more winsomeness in the smiles that were shot like lances across the drill ground.

The contest for the most popular maid of honor is on. The winner will live in history as the "Belle of Camp Hancock," and though not one of the social butterflies would for the world betray the slightest anxiety, there is a big undercurrent of suppressed yearning to carry off the prize, just such as thrilled the hearts of mediaeval maids when when the victor of the joust rode down past galleries of fair women to bestow the just earned prize upon the lady of his choice.

The mediaeval custom has left its impress and there has never yet been a successful encampment where the question of superiority among the sponsors and maids of honor was not as keen as among the competing soldiery.

The present encampment is one of the greatest held for years. There never was such a bevy of beautiful maids of honor gathered together to smile approval on competing soldier boys. The United States has appointed judges to decide the question of military superiority, but only the voice of the people can award the palm for beauty and popularity.

To settle this question the Post-Dispatch has decided to open an election to soldiers and civilians and determine by ballot the only determinable question:

Who is the most popular Maid of Honor?

A ballot blank will be published daily in the Post-Dispatch with the Post-Dispatch with the Post-Dispatch will next featured to see the post-Dispatch will next featured to see the post-Dispatch will next featured to see the post

who is the most popular Maid of Honor?

A ballot blank will be published daily in the Post-Dispatch until next Saturday's last edition. Fill this out, writing/the name of the young lady, her company and that of the voter.

All are entitled to vote, ladies, gentlemen, civilians and soldiers.

To the winner in the contest, which will be decided by a committeee of citizens, the Post-Dispatch will present a set of colors of her company—the finest handlwork that can be found in St. Louis, to be an elegant souvenir of the occasion.

Cut out this ballot, fill it out and forward it to the Post-Dispatch office, addressed "Maid of Honor Contest."

As soon as possible after the contest closes the Post-Dispatch will present a handsome quarter page stipple-crayon portrait of the young lady voted the most popular maid of honor.

WINTER WHEAT

Reports Indicate That the Crop Will Be Considerably Short.

DROUGHT DID THE DAMAGE

The Oats Crop Is Also Below the Aver age in Nearly All the States Heard From.

CHICAGO, Ill. July 3.-The following will ppear in this week's Farmers' Review: Reports have been received from Illinois ndiana, Michigan, Kentucky, Missouri Cansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minne ota and Dakota on the condition of wheat sota and Dakota on the condition of wheat, oats and hay.

Harvest time does not show an improvement in condition of winter wheat. In winter wheat Stafes the condition of spring and opening summer have not been favorable for the recovery of the crop from the drought of fall and winter. In Illinois much has already been cut and in shock. Drouth in some counties, together with a hard winter, have left things in a bad shape. In some localities the yield is not more than one-fourth a fair crop. From that up to 80 per cent of a good crop is the extent of variation. Indiana conditions are very similar. Ohio will have but a fair yield, less than the ordinary. Michigan varies from a half to a full crop, with an average of fair. While in Kentucky more counties have full crops than in the neighboring States to the north, yet the yield is poor in so many localities that it will greatly reduce the average for the State. A few counties in Missouri have full crops, but most of the correspondents report a very short indeed, and of the entire area sown not more than 40 per cent will be harvested. In Nebraska there is no improvement in condition and the yield is small, a great deal having been plowed up. In some parts of lowa the yield of winter wheat is good, but other sections have a light crop. In Wisconsin the yield is small, But little spring wheat is grown in the winter wheat States, and that little is in only fair condition. In Iowa the present condition is from fair to good.

Wisconsin reports poor to fair. In Minnesota are proving a disappointment on account of continued dry weather. In Illinois the crop will be less than an average unless good rains come soon. Indiana conditions are fair. Ohio has prospects ranging from poor to fair. In Michigan all kinds of conditions exist, from poor to good. Kentucky will have a crop far short of the usual one. Missouri conditions are favorable since the copious rains. In Nebraska conditions are favorable. The nat crop is generally good in Iowa and Wisconsin, fair in Minnesota and g

Poor Seed Sold to Farmers.

Poor Seed Sold to Farmers.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—An immense amount of poor seed is sold to American farmers and gardeners, according to a report recently issued by the Agricultural Department. While other countries for many years have been looking into the subject with a view to protecting their agriculturists from abuse in the seed, no investigations have been made in the United States except at a few experiment stations. Great apathy prevails, however, among purchasers of seed, who, as a rule, buy the cheapest in the market and trust to luck for it to produce the crop. Such seed, says the report, is dear at any price and the principal source of the hosts of bad weeds, whose eradication costs vastly more than the few cents a pound extra which good seed would have cost. The report makes the charge that American seed has acquired a poor reputpation in foreign countries, in some of which it is difficult to gain a foothold through prejudice.

SHE KNEW HE WAS MARRIED

Yet Fannie Johnson Lived With Cyrus Wheelock as His Wife.
BUFFALO, N. Y., July 3.—As Cyrus J.

Wheelock, a real estate man living on Nor-wood avenue, was riding on his bicycle along Richmond avenue last evening, he was chased and overtaken by a carriage. Within the carriage was a blonde young woman, well dressed and pretty. As the door of the vehicle came opposite the wheelman, the roung woman flung it open and sprang out, grabbling Wheelock about the neck as she did so. They all fell in the street in a did so. They all fell in the succe jumble, but were quickly on their feet again.

"For God's sake, Fannie," he cried, "what are you doing here?"
"I've came after you, Cyrus," the woman answered. "I want you to get into the carriage. I've got a warrant for your arrest and you must come with me to police head-ouarter."

carriage. I've got a warrant for your arrest and you must come with me to police head-quarters."

She shoved him in and directed the driver to proceed. The hackman started and the couple inside the carriage began to quarrel. The driver heard a peculiar sound, such as is emitted by a choking person, and pulled up his horses. Opening the door, he found that Wheelock had the woman by the throat. She was lying back among the cushions and gasping for breath. At the driver's interruption Wheelock jumped out of the carriage and ran down the avenue. The woman made no attempt to call him back or pursue him, but drove to Wheelock's house, where she had an interview with his wife, telling her story and denouncing Wheelock. The woman was Miss Fannie Johnson, who has been a resident in the Manning apartment house, New York City, for some time. Miss Johnson arrived in Buffalo on an early train on Tuesday. She was driven at once to police headquarters and asked to see the superintendent. She told him that she was the daughter of respectable English parents who came to Buffalo ton years ago. Six years ago she met Wheelock. She was then a young and impressionable girl, while he was alrady married. The families lived not far apart. Wheelock is he was at liberty he should hasten to marry the girl. The young woman's parents did not suspect that his affection for her was anything but proper until it became necessary for her to leave the city.

tion for her was anything but proper that it became necessary for her to leave the city.

Wheelock was doing a prosperous business then. He established the girl at the Gilsey House for a time, and later sent her to Cieveland, where business frequently called him. In fact, he spent most of his time there, his interest in a big land deal furnishing a good excuse for his absence from home. In Cleveland their first child was born. Soon afterwards Wheelock removed the woman to New York, where she took rooms at the Manning. A year later a second child came. According to Miss Johnson's story he kept telling her that he was on the point of securing a divorce from his wife and that he would soon be able to marry her. Last summer he sent her and the children to Europe. During the past few months Miss Johnson became convinced that Wheelock had been fooling her all along. She had a consultation with an attorney, and by his advice decided to come to Buffalo and begin proceedings compelling Wheelock to support the children.

CONFESSED THE CRIME. George Smith Admits Killing His Son-

in-Law, Lewis Perrill. ecial to the Post-Dispatch. killing of young Lewis Perrill yesterday his father-in-law, George Smith, who was suspected of the crime, surrendered himself and confessed the murder. The old man is now in Tazewell County Jail. A family feud had resulted from Perrill marrying Smith's daughter nine months ago. There have been several personal encounters between the two men. Perrill had threatened Smith's life, but the latter was told of his intention, and procuring a 48-caliber rifie, waited for him in a lonely bit of timber in a shed, which he had prepared especially for the purpose. When Perrill drove by Smith poked-the rifie through a hole and opened fire. Perrill was mortally wounded, but attempted to reach his murderer. He dropped dead after going a few feet. Smith then emptied a shot-gun into the corpse. He soon afterward gave himself up to the authorities. The shooting took place within a very short distance of where Albert Wallace recently shot his sister, her husband and a hired man, and also where the famous Berry tragedy took place. Great excitement has been occasioned by the murder and threats of lynching have been made,

ACROSS THE TABLE.

Strawberries add much to the effect of the table if served in a pyramid with their stems on. They should be arranged in one of the new green-leaf dishes on a bed of glossy green leaves. A charming idea for a strawberry luncheon is to serve the cream in individual little pitchers costly and odd enough to be used as the souvenirs of the lunch. The sugar which is passed with the cream should be heaped on small green leaves which match the center dish.

Great care should be taken in scenting the water used in the finger bowls. To be correct the odor must be exceedingly faint. Verbens leaf is refreshing, and occasionally one leaf is left floating on the water of each finger bowl. Perfume tablets are excellent for this purpose. If a scented flower is used in decorating the table it is well to have the water in the finger bowl of the same perfume as the flower.

Crystalized fruit is considered a luxury if bought in the shops. If home-made it is equally delicious and much cheaper. Pineapple crystallized is a dish fit for an epicure. To prepare it, cut the pineapple in slices across the fruit, having each piece a good quarter-inch thick. Make a very thick syrup, pound for pound, adding for each pound a small cup of water. Boil the sugar first, then drop in the fruit, and when they have boiled clear take out and drain from the sugar, lay on a sieve and set the fruit on a warm owen. Use a wire dish and set within another dish to catch the syrup. In two hours turn the fruit and apprinkle with sugar again. Keep this up until the sugar has all dripped out. On no account have the oven hot, as it will dry the fruit and leave it like so much leather. And, of course, the fruit must be laid in single rows when drying.

When the juice has evaporated and the sugar has formed a glazed surface, put away in boxes in a dry place. Waxed paper should be laid between each.

The lunch cloths used at this season of the year are scattered with blossoms. The cloth is of fine damask, and those in the lily if the valley desig

"He wants to know if he can't have a light."
"Here, confound him! Give him this lantern, and ask him if he wants the earth, and if he'll have it fried on only one side or turned over."

of the sound, and presently was greatly amazed to see the camp lights open directly in line with the tramping animal. He kept on, however, and presently the sound ceased. As the boat moved nearer to the shore two luminous points appeared in the gloom. They were seen by the yellow-haired youth at the same time, and his teeth beat a staccato accompaniment to the rippling of the water under the bow of the skin. Presently the bails of fire glowed at short range and the guide gave the boy the signal to shoot. The trembling of the gunwales—the signal—had hardly been sont to the shooter forward, however, when the guide xelled, at the top of his voice, "Hay don't shoot!" But it was too late. The singht splashing.

"Twe killed him! Twe killed him!" cried the yellow-haired youth. "I hope you haven't," was the plaintive rejoinder, "and don't you shoot again." Paddling closer in shore, the guide turned the boat and said, "There's your deer."

And Instead of a thumping big buck stricken by the yellow-hairs bullet, it was Dukelow's cow. She was still wallowing on the shore hair-mired, and, as the guide swatted her with the paddle, she made one last effort and lumbered shoreward. The yellow-haired youth, between buck fever and his narrow escape, was pretty well done up, and scorning the suggestion to keep on jacking he lighted a lantern, hunted up the cow and poked at her all over trying to find the bullet hole. He didn't succeed, but the next day the guide showed him where he had cut the top from one of the tallest pines in St. Lawrence County trying to kill the wall-sided cow of Horse-shoe Pond.

And to this day no one but the yellow-haired youth and his guide knows how close the docile-eyed milk critter came to being killed by a tumbling tree top, cut from its parent stem by a 45-70 express bullet.

A Plucky Woman.

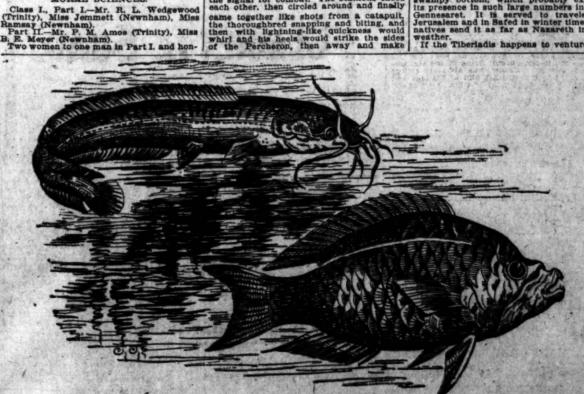

Prom the Brooklyn Eagle.

On the eve of Decoration Day a Brooklyn teacher, shortly after she had stepped on a Fulton ferryboat, felt some animal running up her stocking, and taking refuge under the yoke of her skirts. She grasped the creature, and, though shuddering with horror, she resolutely refraised from making any outcry. She maintained this self-control until the boat had touched the dock and she had reached the walting-room, when she liberated a great whar rat.

garded as one of the very ablest, most energetic and truthful of all the explorers of the "Dark Continent," And that he should be cut off almost in the outset of his brilliant career—he was but little more than 30 years of age—seems particularly distressing. The editors of the Century Magasine had received some letters from him while he was away and about a hundred excellent photographs which are very valuable, but they have had no manuscript. Glave was very methodical, however, and kept copious notes, which he frequently made more plain by sketches whigh he drew very cleverly as he went along. The only publication that has been made of any part of his recent work was that in the May number of the magasine, in which there were reproductions of three photographs of the tree under which Dr. Livingstone's heart was buried just twenty-one years before Glave found it. When Stanley went to Artica in 1832 to establish the Congo Free State he took Glave, then a boy of B years, with him, and was so much impressed with his sarnestness and intelligence that he gave him command of a station. Glave often said that it was the proudest day of his life when Stanley gave this expression to his confidence in the lad, who felt that he lacked every other quality for this important trust as much as he placed in his youthful lieutenant, and was proud of his rapid progress. His station soon grew under his energetic will. Trees were felled, the jungle was cleared, and houses were built.

He remained at his post on the Congo six years, and was there when Stanley came along the river with his expedition for the relief of Emin Pasha. It had been Stanley's intention to take Glave along with him on that expedition, but the officers of the Congo Free State expired he came to this country with Frederick Villiers to lecture during the winter months. When spring came and the lecture season was over his restless energy took him to Alaska as a member of an expedition sent out in 180, but which broke up after it had been in the field a short time

LIFE ON SPRUCE STREET. Miss Ellerton of Evansville Saw It to Her Sorrow.

It behooves young ladies who have just reached town to inform themselves of the ways of city life, especially as exemplified on Spruce street, before starting upon tours of exploration. If Miss Maud Ellerton of Evanswille, Ind., had observed this advice Tuesday morning she would not now be suffering from anatomical disintegration caused by an encounter with a jesious woman. Miss Ellerton got into the Union Station on an Air Line train as early as 7 o'clock. She immediately salled forth to see the city and secure an abiding place. In Evanswille, apparently, there exists a refreshing confidence in human nature, and accordingly when a young man introduced himself to Miss Ellerton at the Market street exit, as Mr. Floyd, and offered to secure her a rooming place, she did not suspect that he belonged to some other woman, and joyfully accepted his offer. Mr. Floyd's intentions were evidently not honorable, for he immediately piloted Miss Ellerton toward Spruce street. When the couple passed the house No. 511, a woman suddenly dashed out upon the couple with a shriek of jealous frenzy and demanded of Miss Ellerton was entirely unprepared for "man." young ladies who have ju

Miss Ellerton what she was doing with her "man."

Miss Ellerton was entirely unprepared for such a display of inhospitality and failed to put up any kind of a defense, when the woman, who is known as Belle Lindon, proceeded to claw her hair out, hammer her over the head, shoulders and face with an umbrella and pummel her eyes with her fist. As for Mr. Floyd, he had an immediate engagement elsewhere.

After Miss Ellerton had visited the Dispensary, where Dr. Newcomb dressed two savers soalp wounds, a badly split upper lip, a black eye and a severely contused shoulder, she took the next train for Evans-ville.

FITZSIMMONS' TRIAL. The Justice Denied the Motion to Dismiss the Case.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 2.—In the trial of Fitzsimmons to-day counsel for the defendant asked Judge Ross to dismiss the case upon the ground that the people have not proved a case. Justice Ross denied the motion, but said he may charge the jury as to whether the contest was legal or not, and if so what constitutes assault in the third degree.

Attorney McLennan in presenting the case for the defense, stated that he could prove by a Commissioner of Police and Captain of Police Quigley that this was no infraction of the law. The defense would also prove by an eminent physician that Riordan had suffered a stroke of apoplexy and was told that if he did not stop drinking and violent exercise he would soon die. Riordan never informed Fitzsimmons.

Capt. Quigley testified that the sparring was light and that he did not see Riordan throw his head upward and backward. Indeed, he had not nowiced that either man hit the other.

LUCKY OWNERS.

Some of the Sensational Horses Chinn & Morgan Have Had.

Few racing firms have been as fortunate in getting hold of sensational race horses as have Chinn & Morgan, the lucky Kentucky turfmen. Ban Fox, Leonatus and Lissak being a trio hard to beat. They have owned many other good horses of the class of Louise and Ingomer and any number of the selling plater kind; in fact, throughout their turf connection they have figured very prominently as winning owners, and frequently for seasons their strings have been very limited in numbers.

ATTORNEYS DISBARRED.

Final Judgment Against Harber and Knight, but Mullins Escapes.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 2.—The Supreme Court rendered a final judgment of disbarment from practicing in the Supreme Court against E. M. Harber and A. G. Knight in the suit filed some time ago by Knight in the suit filed some time ago by the Attorney-General, charging these attorneys with mutilating and falsifying the correct transcript of the evidence in the case of the State of Missouri against Jos. A. Howell, and in making a false statement of the #acts in oral arguments made by E. M. Harber and A. W. Mullins before the Supreme Court. Strange as it may appear to the ordinary layman Harber is upon the same state of facts charged against Mullins' disbarred, whils the latter is discharged. The evidence to sustain the court's action seems ample and the differences in its conclusion in the two cases is one of those puzzles with which the student of the law will in the future have to wrestle.

Oleomargarine dealers are of the opinion that there will be no violations of the law which went into effect June 21, regulating the sale of that commodity. The law says that imitation butter must be uncolored. They anticipate no falling off in the demand, as the poorer classes will coatinue to buy good butterine in preference to poor butter.

INDIANA SALOONS.

effect of the Enforcement of the Nich-olson Law.

Effect of the Enforcement of the Nichclson Law.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 3.—Dispatches from all parts of Indiana show that the Nicholson temperance law is the absorbing topic. A dispatch from Frankfort reports that every poolroom and billiard-room is closed and not a game of any kind is running. Four of the fifty saloons at Madison closed because of the new law, while the others prepared to obey it. Forty saloons at Anderwon paid no attention last night to the law, and it is understood that each saloonman paid sio into a fund to fight the measure. Special advices from Valparaiso say that so far nome of the seventeen saloonkeepers of that city has paid any attention to the new law and that the city authorities will let the matter rest for a few days. The saloon-keepers have engaged counsel to fight any attempt looking to the removal of pool and billiard tables. No action has been taken at Hartford City looking to enforcing the new law, but one saloon has voluntarily retired from business. Already one large billard and poolroom. "Temperance Hall," has been started.

Several saloons at Shelbyville refused to take out a license in anticipation of the new law, the authorities gluing it out that it would be enforced. The Mayor of Decatur ordered the laws enforced. No trouble is anticipated at Fort Wayne, save from the restaurants having saloon attachments. Twelve saloons have given notice at Evansville of an intention to retire from business. At Crown Point the Clvic Federation has taken the matter in hand, and fully lifty saloons in Laké County, depending almost entirely on Sunday trade, will be forced out of business. The Rev. J. A. Cole, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Crown Point, has undertaken the publication of a paper as the organ of the Federation.

The advices from every quarter, as a rule, indicate that the law will be observed and that the saloon-keepers will look to the Supreme Court to overthrow the law, until which time they will be comparatively quiet.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Two Republican

House settee yesterday. One was J. Donald Cameron from Pennsylvania. The other was Robert T. Lincoln. They had a chat. At the same hotel was Richard C. Kerpins, member of the Republican National Committee from Missouri, a gentleman whose business, political and social relations with Senator Elkins of West Virginia are the closest. He spoke of Joseph Benson Foraker of Ohio as a man much to be admired in another year.

Mr. Kerens also remarked that Joe Manley was the same kind of man. Senator Elkins had recently referred to Foraker as a very possible presidential quantity. The old Blaine guard, he added, looked upon Foraker as Blaine's Political heir.

Secator Elkins has invited Foraker to be his guest in the solitudes of West Virginia this month. He will send a private car to bring the ex-Governor and Mrs. Foraker to his villa. This information tallies with the remark of Gen. Bushnell, that Foraker was soon to go away on a fishing vacation. It is also intimated that Tom Reed is the Foraker candidate for President in preference to McKinley.

Evading the Sunday Law.

Bredal to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July &—The Hotel Men's Association and the authorities have locked horns on the question of selling liquor to hotel guests on Sunday. Under the law they may sell to guests on Sundays, with meals. They have been serving "five-cent meals" on Sunday and assuaging thirsts liberally. The police say, this is the boldest kind of aubterfuge and say they are going to see about it. The chances are good that next Bunday most people will have a supply of drinks corrailed at home to be on the safe side.

BOODLING LEGISLATORS. Some of the Illinois Law-Makers May

Be Indicted. CHICAGO, Ill., July 3.—It is reported that a special Grand-jury may investigate charges of boodling made against members of the Legislature, and it is claimed that evidence enough is obtainable to indict at least fifteen of the State's law-makers—and breakers. Several of these are from Cook County. It is claimed that after Game Warden Blow had introduced a bill for the preservation of game, that a rural member of the House obtained 700 from the Illinois Sportsmen's Association, to whom the measure was objectionable, to substitute for the undesirable feature of the bill a section removing the penalty from sportsmen and placing it upon the dealer who bought or sold game in certain periods no matter where killed. Chicago commission men who deal in game sent a committee to Springfield to defeat this new section and claim that they were immediately called upon by half a dozen legislators who wanted to kill the bill for prices ranging from 800 to 51,000. One Cook County Senator, it is said, wanted $2,500.

It is also claimed that evidence has been obtained establishing charges of bribery in the passage of the Miller and Lowenthal bills, the Crawford railroad bills, the bill providing for the consolidation of certain corporations, and it is aserted that evidence can be had that money was used to defeat the arbitration bill.

It is probable that the Board of Trade may ald materially in furnishing evidence against one or two members of the House in connection with a certain bill in which the Board of Trade was interested. CHICAGO, Ill., July 3.—It is reported that
